Will Try Introducing New Game Bird

Through the generosity of a number of members who have partly defrayed the expenses, the Didsbury Fish & Game Association are mak ing an effort to add the Bob-White Quail to the number of game birds in the district.

Two pairs of quail were obtained from the Miner Game Farm and are now under the care of Geo. Julien and Jack Fleury. They are doing and Jack Fleury. well and are reported to be preparing for nesting.

The efforts of the Fish & Game Association in introducing Chinese Pheasants into the district proved very successful and reports are coming in that the pheasants are quite numerous all over the west country and a number have been seen in the Rosebud coulee and the brush section east of town.

It is only about seven years ago since these birds were introduced and if similar success can be obtained with the bob-white quail the addition to the bird life of the district will be well worthwhile.

NOTICE. CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Town Council.

A meeting of the town council was held Monday evening, with Mayor Chambers in the chair.

The secretary reported that an amendment has been made to the Town Act to allow towns to levy a business tax as in former years.

A letter was read from the department of health stating that the keeping of pigs within the town limits must be prohibited. The letter will be turned over to the local board of health.

An application for the old age pension was approved.

The grounds and buildings at the Butte were reported to be in a state of disrepair. Councillors Reiber and Fleury were appointed to meet the committee of the Agricultural Society and arrange for the fixing up of the grounds and build-ings. It was also decided to prohibit the pasturing of stock on the grounds.

A decision was arrived at to given by the girls. advance the wages of D. A. Lamont The candle lie to $100.00 per month from June 1 to December 1.

The secretary reported that there was only one appeal against the assessment, and a court of revision will be held on Tuesday, June 4 for the purpose of hearing the appeal.

It was decided to hold a cleanup week the first week in June.

A number of accounts were passed

Builders And Wreckers

Glancing through a little trade magazine the other day the writer came across a short bit of verse entitled "Wreckers", which, in these days and times, is worthy of still wider circulation. So we reproduce it:

I watched them tearing a building down,
A gang of men in a busy town.
With a ho-heave-ho and a lusty yell,
They swung a beam and the side wall fell.

I asked the foreman "Are these men skilled And the men you'd hire if you had to build?"
He gave a laugh and said, "No, indeed!"
Just common labor is all I need.
I can easily wreck in a day or two

What builders have taken a year to do."

I thought to myself as I went my way, Which of these roles have I tried to play? Am I a builder who works with care,
Measuring life by the rule and square?
Am I shaping my deeds to a well-made plan,
Patiently doing the best I can?
Or am I a wrecker, who walks the town,
Content with the labor of tearing down?

All over this world of ours there are men and women earnestly striv-All over this world of ours there are men and women earnestly striving to build,—people in governments, in churches, in education, in finance, in industry, in business; statesmen around the League of Nations council table, sitting in international conferences, or engaged in diplomatic negotiations. They are trying to build anew out of the wreckage and upheaval of political, economic and social conditions thrown into chaos by the Great War and its bitter aftermath. They are striving to save civilization, and make it a finer thing than anything hitherto known.

But because the times are temporarily out of joint, weaknesses have developed in the economic system, social evils have become multiplied; in a word, because abnormal conditions exist and many people are in difficulties, the "wreckers" have become bold and walk the town biatantly engaged in

Little Journeys In Science

THE SPECTROSCOPE

A glass prism in the hands of the great scientist Sir Isaac Newton in 1672 commenced the train of thought that led to this discovery. Newton observed that the prism split up ordinary sunlight into the various colors of which it is composed. The prism was the beginning of a very powerful instrument of science, namely the spectroscope which was depowerful instrument of science, name-ly the spectroscope, which was de-veloped about a hundred years later. It is this instrument that tells us that all the suns and planets are composed of the same materials in different proportions.

The spectroscope sees more than our eyes enable us to see. Man can only observe those substances that give off vibrations to which our eyes sensitive to all vibrations that matter sends out. We cannot see color-less gases, but the spectroscope can. In fact this instrument can see gases so plainly that it can tell one from another. This is because every solid substance and every kind of gas sends out vibrations, each having a rate of vibration of its own. Science determined the rates of vibration of the various solids and gases of which the earth is composed. When the same vibrations come from other planets and suns scientists know that they are composed of the same materials that are in the earth.

Five Major Errors

Cause Of Motor Fatalities Given By Insurance Company

What causes motor car fatalities? Violation of certain common rules of the road, which are, or should be, known to all, accounts for most of them.

The Travellers' Insurance Company of the United States in its annual compilation of highway accidents finds drivers guilty of five major errors. Of the 36,000 deaths last year, the report shows, 6,850 were caused by excessive speed, 3,470 by driving on the wrong side of the road, 2,740 by not having right of way, 3,820 by driving off roadway, 2,740 by other reckless driving. Pedestrians erred, too, and are taxed with two major causes in the annual roll of fatalities: 4,310 by crossing streets between intersections and 2,690 by walking on rural highways. These seven causes account for 74 per cent. of the total lives lost .- St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Say Shipments To U.S. From Canada Go To Flour Mills

United States agents are combing the midwest in a hunt for wheat bootleggers, according to a Chicago despatch to the Herald Tribune.

"Because of the swirling storms of dust which last year covered meagre forage in pasturelands," the despatch says, "and increased the death rate of cattle, the duty on wheat was reduced from 42 per cent. to 10 per cent. to permit its importation for feeding purposes. Investigators have discovered large diversions of the feed wheat to flour mills.

Large Sum Pald Men Who Would Lead Applause

They number about 40 men, mostly Italians. They band together in New York whenever Manhattan's Metropolitan Opera gives a performance. They have no tickets and they need none. A leader passes them in, huggermugger, at the 39th street entrance before the carriage trade arrives. Inside, they station themselves on either side of the house, as near the stage as possible. Perhaps 15 climb to the tip-top gallery. Upstairs or downstairs their job is the same-to clap.

The horny-palmed gentlemen of the Claque are worried for the whisper is that they would no longer be wanted after Herbert Witherspoon takes command at the Metropolitan. The Metropolitan management had nothing to say, for it has never officially acknowledged its professional clappers. Their leader, one Harold Lodovichetti, was melancholy. Having inherited his job from his father, Claqueur Lodovichetti he has trained his men not only to promote enthusiasm at the right time but also to curb it. An inexperienced opera -goer gets a resounding hiss if he applauds at a wrong moment. If the Claque happens to be standing behind him, he may be fairly deafened when the cued moment comes.

In candid photography your pic-ture possibilities are limited—or unlimited, as the case may be—by the versatility of your camera, but for the average amateur a small camera with an f.3.5 lens will give all the speed necessary. A fast lens plus super sensitive panchromatic film is essential if you are to make your candid camera shots under adverse lighting conditions, in or outdoors. Next in importance is your shutter speed. No, an extremely fast shutter speed is not all-important for candid shots, but obviously it has many ad-

Cutworm Control.

Although the farmer knows much about the matter, the amateur gardener little suspects that long before he sows his highly-prized seeds an enemy has been waiting in preparation for immediate assault. This is the cutworm which attacks all kinds and conditions of plants, and so far as agriculture is concerned, is such a menace that each year both the Dominion and Provincial departments of agriculture publish the latest intelligence on the most effective means of counteracting the ravages of this destructive pest.

Bran bait, says the Dominion department, has given most effective control for many years, and it is made up as follows: bran 20-lbs., Paris green 1/2 lb , molasses 1 quart, each evening except Saturday and and water about 212-gallons. In Sunday. Making the bait the DRY ingredients should be mixed thoroughly first. The molasses is then stirred into the water and this solution added He's just a fish catcher. Abolish Alberta Farm Loan Board

Abolition of the provincial board, appointment of J. C. Murray, head of the Alberta branch since it was formed in 1929, as supervisor, and transfer of J. H. Martinson, former Manitoba superintendent, to a similar post here temporarily, are among the principal changes affecting this province as a result of reorganization of the Canadian farm loan board.

The Alberta board which now passes from the picture was composed of Mr. Murray, chairman, by virtue of being provincial superin-tendent; A. H. Towell, of Calgary, manager of municipal hail insurance board, and George Bennett, of Manville, director of the Alberta of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Following one of the most backward seasons in Alberta's history seeding of wheat is now general over the province, fully three weeks later than in 1934. In the extreme southern and south-western sections of the province wheat-seeding is from 25 to 50% completed, while in the east-central and south-central districts the wheat is practically all in. Throughout the north-central districts seeding has just become general and the percentage in the ground is at this date comparatively small. In the northern districts, with the advent of warmer weather, seeding has begun and will be well careful preparation.

spersed with periods of high winds, characterized April and the first half of May, and it was not until last week that seasonable spring weather arrived. Intermittent showers of rain are still interfering somewhat with farm operations.

Surface moisture conditions may fairly be stated to be the most satisfactory for some years, although reserve moisture in most of the province is not any too plentiful. Continuous precipitation during the spring has, while delaying operations, created an optimistic feeling.

The extreme southern part of the province records precipitation above the average, particularly in the Medicine Hat area. In the area to the east of the Calgary-Macleod line there has been some soil-drifting but this has not as yet been serious. and further rains have helped to minimize the menace. In the districts where serious drought conditions her have prevailed for a number of years ma. moisture conditions are reported to be fairly satisfactory.

Heldback by late spring conditions hopper hatching is not expected to commence for another two weeks. Generally speaking, the hopper menace is not expected to be as great as in the past three years.

The general tendency this year is to reduce wheat acreage and iucrease the acreage in coarse grain. although it is too early to make a three chums definite estimate.

Livestock generally is in fair condition. There have been somewhat heavy losses of sheep and cattle due to the prolonged winter and late spring. Reports indicate that the lamb crop this spring will be lighter

Hog marketings since the first of the year have proceeded steadily at fairly good prices. For the first time in history Alberta has this spring taken the lead among the provinces in total marketings, largely due to the slump in the Ontario marketings.

Cattle shipments to the American markets have been continuing from Alberta at good prices. The province's cattle industry has benefited of this trade, which raised beef-cattle prices to a level not experienced for some years. Since February 1st Alberta has shipped a total of 11,000 head to the U.S. markets, which is 18% of the total Canadian shipments to that market.

Precipitation Figures.

The following records of precipiration for the period from April 1 to May 13 indicate moisture conditions in various parts of the province. The figures quoted for most of the points in April are about the past ten-year average for that month, the point showing greatest increase being Medicine Hat, which had a total of 2.02 inches in April, compared with the ten-year average of 1.27.

CHAPTER XVII.

Sheriff Garcy sprang to his feet as Jameson's car stopped outside his office. He had just taken old Carr to a bedroom and seen him tucked away for the night under a dose of Bromide. He ran down the steps and almost jerked Jameson from the wheel. Then he saw Peyotl huddled in the back seat.

"What you got, Evan?" he demanded. "This's as bad a mess as I ever saw. Old Joe's quietly crazy. He swears he didn't tell me about that shootin' because he can't."

"Is he drinkin' again?"

"He is not but I gave him some dope. Anybody who can throw some light on this blot'll be doin' a favor

"That's what I brought Stone and this man for. Take him inside, Garcy drew Peyotl forth and gave one indignant sniff at him.

"You smell like somethin' the dog buried," he growled. "Where'd you git that stuff from? . . ." Peyotl crouched and gibbered . . . "I been Jameson. "That's blood on that plain. All day they pounded along pinchin' the people who use that for stone. . . ." three years an' now you got the nerve to come right to my office ered stinkin' of it. Come inside."

Peyotl into a chair and turned to knows I never meant it. . . ." Stone.

"Shoot," he said tersely. "And for God's sake try to git on the target the first shot."

Without a word, Stone laid on the desk the bandanna neckerchief: the Derringer pistol, the pieces of cigarettes and the entire one that he had taken from Dustin. Then:

"I reconstruct the affair this way," he said. "Here's what I can swear ." He told them only what he actually knew That he had taken those peyotl cigarettes from Dustin's pocket. Then he swung on Peyotl, who sat staring dully at him.

"Where did you get this pistol?" he asked shortly. "We know you shot Keene. The smell of the peyotl on the neckerchief gives you away. Where'd you get this pistol from?"

"Unless you want to hang, you'd better talk," said Garcy.

Still Peyotl stared at them. Finally he muttered dully:

"I took the pistol from Mist' Sam's desk. . . ."

"Whose desk?"

"He means Dustin." said Jameson quickly. "How did you put the gun in Mr. Carr's pocket? Better tell all you know. . . .

"Easy enough," said Peyotl. slipped in through the back door the minute the light went out. I shot the gun an' stuck it in Mr. Carr's coat. Then I got out before the light came on again."

"Why did you want to shoot a man you'd never seen?" asked Stone. "A man you didn't even know. . .

"No wonder we couldn't find Kane," said Stone in a half-whisper. 'Where'd you bury him?" he asked quietly though the very hair on his head was rising.

"Up there. . . . In Red Water canon," said Peyotl vaguely.

Stone turned to Garcy and Jame-

"For the murder of Gerald Keene," quoth Jameson.

Stone laughed and Garcy stared at his heartlessness.

"I got Epps to give out the false news of his death," he said. "He's "Keene," said Stone sharply. "Not not dead and he isn't going to die for some time, I hope. I just want to see what Dustin's game'll be when he hears Keene was killed by Carr."

It began in fitful puffs that started the tumble-weed rolling across the n.esa and raised whirling "dust-devils" across the through the growing storm and made a dry camp at Coyote Crossing. The Peyotl. The sound of his own ponies made no attempt to forage but stood with lowered heads and turned the sand like shot and piled it deep

"It'll be clear to-morrow," growled "How'd do you come to do it, Peyotl. "A sandstorm never lasts but three days."

Dawn came clear and cold and Peyotl lapsed into sullenness that grew with each mile. Old dreams came to him, old visions appeared in a series of broken scenes. For years of use of that debasing drug had worked on a brain that was never too strong. They were never pleasant dreams. Peyotl does not work like that; they were just the horrible phantasmagoria of a partially disordered brain.

Grinning faces bobbed above a saw-toothed sky-line. They hung to that sky-line with claw-like hands as birds hang to a telegraph wire and they gibbered and mowed at him and then ducked behind their menacing claws. A weeping face, the face of old Dad Kane, stared at him from a distant pile of rocks where Stone saw only a coyote yelling. From time to time Peyotl wiped the sweat out of his eyes and furtively looked at Stone. How much of these things was real? How much did Stone see?

But Stone rode on through the shifting sands deep in thought. Peyotl broke one of his infernal cigarettes into pieces and chewed the fragments as a dog chews an old boot. Suddenly . .

A burro blundered out from the mesquite-tangle and jogged across the trail, a loaded burro with a toppack of two buckets, a pick and a shovel . . . Exactly as old Dad Kane used to make up his packs! Peyotl could even see the "Squawhitch" that held it! That burro was not six paces in front of Stone when Peyotl shouted, his voice shrill with terror. Then the unspeakable happened.

Stone rode straight through that burro as a man rides through smoke. Then the burro with his pack disappeared in the sand-laden air and a sudden swirl of yellow dust drove down over the place where he had been. Peyotl shouted aloud in shrill- carried it." voiced terror and Stone turned on him with a hearty curse. He saw at once that something very real was the matter. Peyotl's eves were whitesight in them. If he was seeing things then they were things unseen by mortal man. His mouth was working and white foam lay in the corner of his mouth.

"My God," he said, and his voice broke. . . "Did you see that? You rode right through him! A loaded burro right in yore path and you rode straight through him!"

Stone jerked him from his saddle, swung from his own horse and stood over the cowering wretch.

"This sand-storm's bad enough," he growled, "without my havin' to ride the range with a damned fool of a drug-addict. Where's any burro?"

"There! . . . My God! There he is again. . . ."

Peyotl's wavering finger swung to a spot; then it bobbed up and down as though following a moving burro. Stone's eyes followed the moving finger and saw, above a mesquite bush, the figure of a burro! For a second he stared at it half-paralyzed, then he realized what it was and he began to laugh; a relieved cackle of himself.

"Look! Don't you see the line of one-half miles from the pit bottom light under his feet; between him and the ground?"

with all his force and it struck ground exactly where the burro stood.

"Some prospector over in another tion for his reflection to be lifted at Croydon in the last year. over to us. Let's go on."

But Peyotl would not go on. He hung to Stone's stirrup leather and he babbled wildly as Stone had never heard a man talk before; exactly like a frightened child trying to talk courage into itself.

"Say, Stone," he said in a burst of incoherence, "do you believe the dead kin come back?"

"What? Come back? Come back from where? Do you reckon any man who's got a warm place in hell would try to come back to this place? Who'd you think you saw, Peyot1?"

"It looked to me like old Dad Kane was at that burro's heels. I seemed to see him with a chaw of tobacco as big as a lemon in his face an' a short-handled fry-pan

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's Frequently Just an "Idea." Not "Old Age." And According to Scientists, May be Something No More Alarming Than A Touch Of Acid Stomach

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea.

Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed.

rimmed with fright but there was no Ontario Man Claims Precious Ores Lie Under His Farm

Photographic plates made, claims, solely by radium rays reflected through hundreds of feet of rock and earth have convinced John R. Howle, 90-year-old Clinton Township resident, near Grimsby, Ontario, that valuable deposits of pitchblende, and other precious ores lie under his farm. Metallic articles, such as keys and coins, were placed next the photographic plates in a metal holder which was then buried a few feet under ground with the emulsion side of the plate, facing downward. Next morning the developed plates showed clear images of the metal articles and in some cases radiation of light bands when the plates were buried on certain parts of the farm. The engineers said quite definitely, Howie claims, that these results positively proved the existence of radium deposits, and possibly lead, silver, gas

They are going after gold.—
At least that is the story. Bert hisher and Jack Topley are arranging to go on a short prospecting trip west of here and have already made arrangements for horses and a guide. Bert says he has heard of the location of the ''Old Indian's Gold Mine.'' where they used to pick it up—by the handful.

Only a few of the local fishermen went out to the streams this weekend. Bad road and muddy waters kept a good many of them home, but Bert Fisher and Jack Topley tried the Big Red with only indifferent success, and George Liesemer and Jack Pearson paid a visit to Willard Axtell on the Raven, incidentally trying a little fishing.

For the past month the curfew bell has been rung warning children of the time to go home. For the first few days the curfew was fairly well observed but it appears that a number of children are disregarding it altogether. It has been decided to strictly enforce the bylaw and a notice to that effect is published in another column. Parents are asked to co-operate in this and see that their children are at home at the proper time.
